Mao reported ready to seek position at Paris peace table

Delegates in delicate talks stage

PARIS (AP) — The search for a Vietnam peace through face to face diplomacy has entered its fourth and probably toughest stage.

Some Americans are convinced, however, that in the long run—and it can take a painfully long time—the North Vietnamese want a deal to end the fighting.

Gloomy predictions are being made that the talks once again will fall into a pattern of stubborn holdout when the Americans, South Vietnamese, North Vietnamese and National Liberation Front have their second full-scale session Thursday on fundamental issues impeding a settlement.

The Americans and South Vietnamese delegates spent much of Sunday—as they expect to spend the rest of their time until Thursday—in working meetings to prepare for the next confrontation with the NLF and Hanoi delegations around the huge round table at the international conference center.

The first session, a meeting of six and a half hours Saturday, brought specific proposals from U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and prompt rejection of them from the other side. This led experienced diplomats to predict that the talks once again will fall into a pattern of stubborn holdout.

Helicopters were used to evacuate about 250 persons Sunday near Solyana, 100 miles north of here, and about 50 persons in Los Angeles area canyons, and crews were cleaning up debris.

Meanwhile, in northern California, trees and utility poles fell before 70-mile-an-hour gusts during the night. Utility company employees called it one of the most destructive wind storms in memory. The Pacific Gas & Electric Co. reported trouble in virtually all 48 counties in its service area.

Northern California was largely spared from the latest rain storm that started Thursday, but it had been delayed by a series of four storms in the five preceding days.

The 150 miles from Los Angeles north to San Luis Obispo took the brunt of the latest storm. The U.S. Geological Survey said the flow of water across slopes and stream beds there was the heaviest in history.

Officials called the flooding in the Los Angeles area the worst since 1938. Santa Barbara County, to the north, was isolated for hours Saturday by its worst flooding in 55 years and National Guardsmen were sent to two cities there, Carpinteria and Lompoc. County-wide damage was estimated at $4.3 million.

The first stage came at the end of March, when President Johnson ordered a partial halt in the bombing of North Vietnam. Hanoi chose to present this as a forced concession.

Nixons, cabinet members attend White House services

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon worshipped at the White House Sunday and heard evangelist Billy Graham pray that in a time of crisis of the spirit God will give him and his associates "a wisdom that is beyond their own."

On his first Sunday in office, Nixon and Mrs. Nixon invited members of the Cabinet, other ranking officials, the White House staff and families to services at 11 o'clock in the East Room. There were seats for 224, all were filled, and a few persons stood in the rear.

There were prayers and hymns and a sermon as in most churches—but no collection.

Dr. Graham in a lighter moment took note of the omission. He recalled that the last time he and Nixon attended church the latter was a bit uneasy and nervous. He said the then president-elect leaned over and said he had no money with him, so "I loaned him the biggest bill I had."

East Room services on Sunday will be a fairly regular event at the White House, as plans now stand.

Nixon told one questioner:

"This is the first time a religious service has been held on this side of the White House, although one has been held on the floor below."

Members of the congregation were welcomed by the President at the opening of the service and invited to have coffee in the state dining room afterward.

"He (Johnson) said they (the Pueblo's two .50-caliber machine guns) were to be used in the event that all else failed in extracting ourselves from a harassment situation such as had not been experienced before," Bucher testified last Monday.

"He was quite sure they would never be needed and I was under the definite impression that everyone was not in concurrence at Commander Naval Forces, Japan, that guns should ever be located on the ship."

"I received this impression from many officers up there, that they did not think that they (the guns) belonged on the ship and they felt uneasy about putting the guns on her, and that we might in fact, by having the guns, draw the type of reaction from potential forces that we did not want, which was an attack on the ship."

Johnson will begin his testimony during the afternoon, the Navy said Saturday, after the court hears closed door testimony from his former chief of staff, Capt. Forrest A. Pease.

Bucher, crewcut and angular, begins the second week of the inquiry much differently than the first. He is now in the position to ask questions.

Signs indicate desire to change

LONDON (AP) — Belief is growing among diplomatic experts on Red China that Mao Tse-tung may be getting ready to stake a claim for a seat at any final peace parley on Vietnam.

The experts cite recent changes in Peking's attitude on issues, especially in the foreign field. They believe it may denote a desire by Mao to guide his people back to a relatively normal international life, for the time being at least.

Here are some of the signs of change noted by China watchers:

—Changes in the pattern of Red Chinese shelling against Quemoy and Matsu. These disputed offshore isles held by Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists had been under artillery attacks for years. But lately mainly propaganda leaflets have been dropped on them.

—Rumors that Red Chinese ambassadors may soon be sent back to their posts. They were withdrawn two years ago to be "re-educated" at home during Mao's cultural revolution.

—China's proposal for a renewal of meetings with the United States in Warsaw next month. These ambassadorial-level exchanges represent the one official link between Washington and Peking.

Pope calls death of Czech 'tragic'

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Righting youths and police scuffled in St. Peter's Square Sunday while Pope Paul VI spoke of Czechoslovak who set fire to themselves to protest the Soviet occupation of their country.

"We cannot approve of the tragic form of this testimony," Pope Paul said in his weekly blessing. "But we can treasure its value."

One student was injured on the forehead during the scuffle as police tried to force the group to put down the placards they were brandishing. Blood streamed down his face as he chanted anti-Communist slogans.

"No to the Dialogue with Communists Assassins," said one poster referring to agreements recently signed by the Vatican and Eastern Communist nations.

The slab of wood which injured the youth supported a poster which said, "Paul VI, please pray for the Czech martyrs and for Czech liberty."

One of the largest signs held by the demonstrators read: "Christ is Being Crucified in Prague."

The protest capped three days of anti-Soviet demonstrations throughout Italy to express support for Czechoslovaks and hon-

U.S. expected to nix French Mideast plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Well placed sources said Sunday the United States seems inclined to turn down France's proposal for a Big Four meeting at the U.N. to push for an Arab-Israeli peace settlement.

They said there were grounds for believing the new administration, like the old, sees no use in holding a four-power conference and thinks it can get more done talking with other countries individually.

France proposed Jan. 17 that the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France meet here as permanent members of the Security Council to discuss how to carry out the council's resolution of Nov. 22, 1967.

That resolution lays down principles by which Gunnar V. Jarring of Sweden, as U.N. special representative to the Middle East, has been trying to settle the Arab-Israeli war of June 5-10, 1967.

Jarring, the Swedish ambassador to Moscow, is due here today for talks with Secretary-General U Thant on the resumption of his temporarily interrupted U.N. mission.

The Soviet Union announced last Monday that it had agreed to the French proposal.

Scranton repeated his view that Israel would not be hurt by an improvement in U.S.-Arab relations.

"Unless we do have better relations with the Arabs, I don't see how we can help achieve peace and security," Scranton said in an interview in the Philadelphia Inquirer's Sunday edition.

Scranton repeated his view that Israel would not be hurt by an improvement in U.S.-Arab relations.

"What I think the United States ought to do is help in every way possible to achieve a peaceful settlement and to support Israel and help her attain the security her people have yearned for for 2,000 years," Scranton said.

He also expounded on his plan for peace, embodied in his official report of the Middle East tour.

His recommendations included an effort toward a breakthrough in desalination technology for the benefit of all nations in that arid section.

Franklin link opening delayed

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Delaware River Port Authority officials say they might be able to set a new date later this week for the opening of the Benjamin Franklin Bridge extension of the high speed line to Lindenwold, N.J.

The authority announced Saturday that trouble with the signal system on the $92 million line had forced postponement of the opening, originally scheduled for Feb. 1.

Slate Belt Vietnam veterans welcome home fete planned

BANGOR — The Ladies Auxiliary, officers and members of V.F.W. Dyle E. Bray Post 739, Bangor, will sponsor a welcome home party for all Vietnam veterans of the Slate Belt area.

Honorary guest speakers will be as follows: President of the Ladies Auxiliary of the state of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Pearl Shaffer; the President of the Ladies Auxiliary of the 20th District V.F.W., Mrs. Grace Mulholland, Stroudsburg; Bangor Auxiliary President Mrs. Esther Stouffer; the State Commander of the V.F.W., Gene Manfray, and his Chief of Staff Paul Winger, of the State of Pennsylvania V.F.W. headquarters in Harrisburg; the 20th District Commander, Paul E. Kutzler of Northampton, and Bangor post member who is the 20th District Sr. Vice Commander, Nelson Serfass.

Also, the V.F.W. Post 739 Commander, Jack Davis; Sr. Vice Commander Merlin

LaBar, and public relations officer, Charles W. Jones, who will be the master of ceremonies.

The affair will be on May 18, beginning at 4 p.m. There will be souvenirs given to every guest. The souvenirs were donated by different business establishments for this occasion. It will be in the Blue Valley Farm Show auditorium on the Bangor-Pen Argyl highway.

The public will be notified of the price of the tickets to attend the event.

Deadline for purchase of tickets to persons in the Slate Belt will be April 16. Tickets will be sold after that date to persons residing outside the State Belt.

Vietnam veterans are invited to attend free of charge. Persons interested in attending are urged to contact the Bangor Ladies Auxiliary or Charles Jones Sr., the public relations officer.

The party is being held in honor of the Vietnam veterans to show appreciation by the V.F.W. post of the veterans' service to their country.

Chestnuthill selects new planning member

BRODHEADSVILLE — Robert Chiland of Effort has temporarily been appointed to the board of the Chestnuthill Township Planning Commission, replacing Harold Everett of Effort, who resigned.

Dr. John Martucci, chairman of the commission said the appointment is temporary until final approval by the township supervisors.

"This gives the planning board a new member, a new resident in the community and should give us a very good cross section of community opinion," Dr. Martucci said.

A meeting of the planning commission is scheduled Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Pleasant Valley High School Library. A final report of the soil survey is expected from the Monroe County Soil Conservation Service.

Members of the cast of "Don Quixote—USA" stage a rehearsal of the senior class play which will be presented at Pleasant Valley High School, Thursday at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday at 8 p.m. They are from the left, Wes Fenner, the villainous opposition; Audrey Arner, as "Conchita," and Gary Frable, the Spanish guide, "Pepe."

BRODHEADSVILLE — The senior class of Pleasant Valley High School is conducting final rehearsals for their play "Don Quixote — USA," which will be presented in the school's auditorium on Thursday and Saturday.

Miss Roslyn Caiazzo, who is directing the play, said it is a light, whimsical, three-act comedy. Miss Caiazzo related the plot:

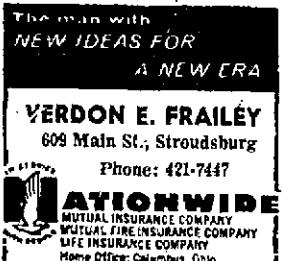

Arthur Peabody Goodpasture, played by Robert Smiley, leaves his rich family to save the poor, unfortunate, starving people of San Marco. His young Spanish guide, Pepe, played by Gary Frable, leads him into further adventure.

Miss Caiazzo, who is directing the play, said it is a light, whimsical, three-act comedy. Miss Caiazzo related the plot:

"To increase this situation," Miss Caiazzo explains, "Conchita, played by Audrey Arner, falls madly in love with the hero. Poor Arthur has all this to combat plus the insanely jealous but bold opposition, played by Wes Fenner."

Other "campesinos" in the play are Emile Altemose, Ross Blakeslee, Ginny Bowker, Karen Bowman, Terry Budge, David Fahrenbach, Shelia Haydi, Sharon Jadic, Louis Kreimoyer, Edgar Mitchell, Cathy Smith, Dave Smith, Wanda Sterner and Larry Trach.

Tickets can be purchased from members of the class and at the door for $1.25 per adult and $75 per student.

Ecumenical sessions

Religious ideas explored

SOUTH STERLING — A sharing of the ideas of faith and the beliefs of the Protestant and Catholic religions highlighted the meeting of the LaAnna-South Sterling Adult Bible Class at the South Sterling United Methodist Church, when a group of 12 nuns, two school principals, Fr. James Flynn, a number of Catholic families, and several interested church members joined the class in an ecumenical session.

The Rev. David W. Flude, pastor, led the 60 persons attending in prayer.

The 12 nuns, all from Central Catholic School, Cresco, presented first a musical program, introduced by Sister Carol spoke of the preliminaries to becoming a nun, and detailed the history of the Order of The Immaculate Heart of Mary.

Sister Lynn discussed the training of a man, including acquiring a "prayer technique" and learning to meditate. Sister Frances told of the teaching order and opportunities in education, pointing out that social adjustment is important as is keeping up-to-date in education. They noted that theirs is an evangelical calling: "Go into the world."

Sister Laurentia spoke about her calling as a nun. Sister Carol spoke of the preliminaries to becoming a nun, and detailed the history of the Order of The Immaculate Heart of Mary.

Proper housing problem to area

Monroe County housing, especially that within the boroughs of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg, has long been the subject of conversation among community leaders and those interested in providing a bright future for the locality.

It may be more correct to say that the availability or unavailability of housing has been the center of conversation.

It is no secret that the lack of housing, especially that which can be rented, is a serious problem in the growth of Monroe County. It has long been a concern of industries showing an interest in setting up business in this locality.

The entire problem has been brought to bear on the area because Monroe County through the years has refused to take part in long range planning. It is only recently that it has tolerated planning of any type.

New we are paying the price.

Finding low or medium rent homes is virtually impossible and this factor is playing a major role in governing the development of the community.

A plan by the Better Housing Council of Monroe County to supply low and middle class rental housing deserves the assistance and approval of all concerned.

Not only will the new construction supply badly needed homes for area newcomers in search of lodging, but it will also enable those people now residing in sub-standard homes to obtain suitable living quarters.

A community is measured by its housing, especially by newcomers to the area. Let's make ours the best yardstick possible.

Churches grow closer

One of the most favorable aspects of everyday life in our community is the apparent closeness of our many churches.

However, it wasn't always that way. In fact, there was a time when a wide breach was just as visible as is the feeling of closeness at the present time.

The ecumenical movement appears to be as successful in our area as in any part of the world. But, it wasn't easy.

It took a tremendous amount of work by the many clergymen who have served in the area and even more cooperation and understanding by the church — going public.

Events such as the third annual Ecumenical Dinner held at Pocono Central Catholic High School recently and the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity, held in Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg, have done much to melt away the wedges that once existed between churches.

This newly found closeness among people on Sunday has spread into everyday association, in business, industry, school, etc. This association has made our community a better place in which to live.

It has brought about a much higher degree of understanding, cooperation and desire to work together on a community level.

There have been many people responsible for the success of the ecumenical movement in this area. Many have gone virtually unnoticed, while others haven't received their just credit.

But, all concerned may rest assured that the movement has been successful and the results most noticeable.

However, as a wise man once said, there's always room for improvement.

Introducing the guest speaker the toastmaster listed his virtues in glowing terms. "That introduction," grinned the guest, "reminds me of the man who, on Judgement Day, stuck his head out the grave, read the epitaph on his headstone, and said: 'Either somebody is a terrible liar, or I'm in the wrong hole.'"

An American manufacturer was taking a Soviet commissar on a tour of his plant. Suddenly, the noon whistle blew and thousands of men streamed out of the plant for lunch.

The visitor was aghast: "They're all escaping!" he cried. "Just wait, they'll be back," his host said dryly. The whistle blew again at 1 o'clock and all the men returned to work. The visitor was noticeably impressed.

"Now," said the manufacturer, "about those machines you were interested in seeing..."

"Forget the machines," the Russian visitor interrupted. "How much for that whistle?"

A father had to borrow some change from his young daughter to pay the paper boy one night, poor man. His daughter is a very thrifty first-grader. At the office next morning, thinking he might have borrowed the child's lunch money, he hurried to the school, knocked on her classroom door and asked to see her.

"Do you have any money?" he asked, anxiously.

"Yes," she said coolly and in a tone teacher could overhear, "but you can't have any more, I gave you all I could spare last night."

Congress looking over Hickel's shoulder

By DONALD R. LARRABEE
Ottaway News Service
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Walter J. Hickel will operate the Interior Department with Congress looking over his shoulder. The relationship will be close but it won't exactly be the kind of "togetherness" President Richard Nixon has been talking about.

It is virtually unprecedented in our system of checks and balances.

To an extent, all Cabinet members expect to give up some of their prerogatives to committees of Congress which control their departmental programs and appropriations. But Hickel, in order to win confirmation, has committed himself to check every major decision in advance with the Senate Interior Committee.

And the new Interior Secretary has acquired a Board of Directors at the Capitol which can effectively tie his hands as long as he occupies the office.

Conservationists can be pleased that Congress has thrown a scare into Hickel — but constitutionalists may find that Congress has upset the system that gives the executive branch certain initiatives over programs and policies.

What has Gov. Hickel promised to do as secretary? He will:

— Continue the landmark conservation accomplishments of the past eight years and sponsor fundamental research into programs to deal with man's impact on wilderness areas and the remaining open space. Conservationists were assured that he favors a preservation policy. He came out for more national parks.

— Retain the existing land freeze in Alaska for two years to allow the 91st Congress to adjudicate native land claims. Before his confirmation hearing, many feared Hickel would wipe out the order by his predecessor.

— Work with New England lawmakers to find a solution to their fuel deficit and the high costs of heating oil in the region. He promised to take a national view of the oil import program and to approach Main's sensitive proposal for a foreign trade zone refinery with an open mind. Two months ago he opposed the zone concept in his capacity as governor of Alaska.

— Work with Congress to develop new techniques for improved management of the environment "so that man will survive in a world worth living in."

In a nutshell, Hickel has promised to satisfy the conservationists, the consumers, the public power advocates, the Indians and Eskimos, explorers, foresters, the fishing industry and the anti-pollutionists. He has indicated he will continue to protect the domestic oil industry, as well.

And, in the bargain, he will give up more than a million dollars in personal investments and try to make sure that none of his varied companies do any business with the Federal Government.

Hickel won confirmation, in large part, because most senators felt that Congress had laid down the broad policy directions for his department and that Hickel had sufficiently bound himself to follow these directions and to consult the responsible committees.

There has always been a liaison system between the Department and the Interior Committees for advisory purposes but no secretary in recent history has had the uncomfortable situation of knowing that everything he does is going to be scrutinized for motives that may not be there. Much of his authority involves activities in Alaska where he so recently has served.

For that matter, Hickel may find himself in a pickle almost immediately. Before leaving office, Stewart Udall worked out two oil and gas development contracts with Alaskan companies. They will land on Hickel's desk for his signature very shortly — and some persons will promptly link them with the new secretary.

Old Interior Department hands feel sorry for their new boss. These contracts have been going on since 1953 and around 35 of them have been negotiated in the past 15 years. They are designed to prevent speculation by assigning exclusive acreage to companies if they will agree to do a certain amount of geological work and exploration for new resources.

As one Interior expert put it: "This is a very legitimate anti-speculation weapon but don't be surprised if Hickel is accused of favoritism even though the contracts were initiated by his predecessor."

This is the measure of Hickel's albatross — and President Nixon's.

Nixon opportunity

Details of a random selection plan were sent to Congress too. A pamphlet accompanying the draft bill spelled out a system under which a draft board would first determine "by lot" a sequence of all 366 possible birthdays for a given year. Then, also by lot, two alphabetical sequences would be determined, for initials of last and first names.

Under the plan, the date sequence would be used to determine the order in which eligibles were drafted in that year. The other two sequences would be used, when necessary, to select among men with the same birth dates.

The Department of Defense and the director of Selective Service agree that if the plan outlines a practical method of random selection, said Col. Bernard T. Franck III, Hershey's assistant, in transmitting the proposal to Congress.

President's last-minute plan, called Fair and Impartial Random Selection (FAIR), was first recommended in 1967 by a special presidential study commission. President Johnson endorsed it then and sent it on to Congress.

Support for plan

Random selection was envisioned as the selection process in a system under which young men would face a year of maximum draft vulnerability at age 19 (or on completion of a trade or college education). The Pentagon, pleased with the prospect of younger draftees, supported the plan.

Even Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service, who had been no fan of selection by lot, was brought around to support of the random selection process. The Senate approved a draft reform bill which would have allowed the president to institute such a procedure along with other draft revisions.

The House of Representatives, however, balked. On grounds that no random selection plan had been spelled out in law, the House Armed Services Committee refused to abandon the oldest-first system by which local draft boards had been selecting among men classified as eligible for service.

The finally approved 1967 compromise bill did not authorize random selection. Instead, Congress invited the President to make a specific legislative request if he still wanted to institute such a plan.

Johnson did not do so until 72 hours before he was to leave the White House. Nor did he revise the selection process so as to tap the reservoir of 19-year-olds first.

House adamant

The draft revision, prepared at Selective Service headquarters and sent to Congress, would let the president set up a fair and impartial random selection system under rules which he would prescribe. The bill would also make changes to assure an orderly transition to calling 19-year-olds first.

Closed for inaugural closed at midnight, if they had opened at all. The few places which were open late did a booming business.

(Next year, when Washington's Board of Trade comes around to those places looking for money to advertise Washington's convention facilities, these same clowns with their "business as usual" attitude will probably say, "Aw, I'm not so interested in getting conventions here. I never seem to make much money when they're in town." I hope someone informs them that the secret to making a buck is staying open.)

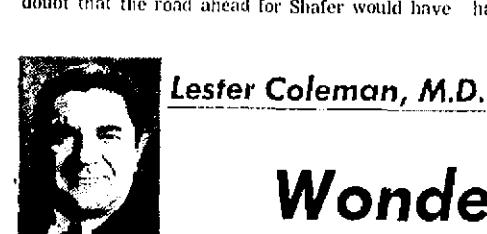

Ah, and the Inaugural Balls. The one I attended was in one of the world's largest hotels with one of the world's smallest driveways. Its designer, had he been there that night, would have been proud of himself; i.e., if his intention was to drive thousands of motorists and taxicab drivers insane trying to get into the place.)

After the ball, around 2 a.m., I looked at my parking-garage ticket. It said, "Open - 7 a.m. until Midnight." But, wonder of wonders, the garage extended its deadline until 3 a.m., due to circumstances! Proving, I guess, that people who run parking lots are smarter than people who run restaurants and hotels.

Wonder of fever

The myths about fever, high and low temperatures, and the fears that accompany them should be clarified for everyone's peace of mind. To begin with, there is a difference between fever and temperature. Everyone has temperature which is the degree of the heat of a living body. Fever, however, refers to an elevation of temperature above normal.

Normal temperature is in the neighborhood of 98.6 degrees, with slight variations that depend on whether the temperature reading is taken under the tongue, rectally or in the armpit. It is important to know that there are normal variations during different times of the day. Following sleep or a heavy meal, slight rises of fever may do occur.

One of the truly great wonders of the body is the heat regulating systems that keep the temperature constant.

Fever, especially when it is particularly high in children, becomes terrifying. When, however, is a sign of good health and that it means that the body's defenses are actively at work to fight infection, it may become less alarming. When fever goes above normal, the skin becomes flushed, there may be a chilly sensation, and sweating occurs. It is by this method that the body surface helps to reduce the fever. Along with fever there almost always comes an emergency call to the liver, to the spleen, and to the bone marrow to send out white blood cells as a barrier against bacteria and infection.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

Fashion counselors are always advising women not to buy anything to wear, even a hat, without looking in a full length mirror to get the total effect, not just a segment. They're probably right.

If you're dressing for the effect on other people, that is. However, for the wearer it's usually a pretty ego-shattering experience to come across herself unexpectedly in a big mirror and have time to observe idly that there's a woman with wrinkled stockings, an uneven hemline and in great need of fresh lipstick before she recognizes herself.

Even more deflating is to listen to the playback of a conversation in which you are involved, recorded unbeknownst. Of course nobody thinks his own voice sounds natural because he's never heard the voice that other people hear unmixed with vibrations from his own bones and sinuses.

But I discovered mannerisms even more unpleasant than a somewhat shrill voice. I interrupt. I finish somebody else's sentence and then let my own sort of trail off while everybody else waits politely to see if I've finished.

Lockard, Becker betrothal

PEN ARGYL — Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lockard of Pen Argyl R.D. 1 announce the engagement of their daughter, Brenda Ellen to Michael George Becker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Becker of 610 North Cameron St., Alice, Texas.

Miss Lockard was graduated from Pen Argyl Area High School and is a senior at East Stroudsburg State College where she is an elementary education major. She is student teaching at the Bushkill Twp. Elementary School.

Her fiance was graduated from William Adams High School and is serving with the U.S. Navy aboard the USS John W. Weeks. He is now on a nine-month cruise to the Far East.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Fellowship in program for WSCS

STROUDSBURG — "Our Youth Speaks" was the program for the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Stroudsburg United Methodist Church, presented by the Methodist Youth Fellowship.

Joanne Sebring stressed parent participation and parental backing in church and school attendance.

Stephen Dahmert conducted a Scripture lesson, using a Bible computer.

Mary Jane Price described her tour of duty with the Head Start program last summer and urged all those interested to sign up with her for a tour of duty for Summer 1968.

Eric Dressler who served as acolyte for the worship service also gave an account of his family's camping trip to the West Coast last summer.

Andy Wille described life at Camp Innabah, a Methodist youth summer camp and also played a saxophone solo. Lee Massie was pianist for the program.

Mrs. John Appel, who was in charge of the program, reviewed the laboratory school experience in which she participated at Albright College in July.

Christian vocations available for youth was discussed and the Fellowship reminded the audience that one of their number, Cathy Parnell is serving in the Peace Corps in Africa.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Clem Price and her committee.

MORA installs president; sets program

STROUDSBURG — George Altmann was installed as president of the Men of Retirement Age and Fred Neipert as first vice president at the meeting held at the YMCA. They had been absent when the other officers were installed.

Rev. Luther Markin conducted the installation and also gave the invocation. Bernard Yardley presided at the meeting. Birthday greetings were extended to Jacob Gass. It was reported that Harris Butz and Charles A. Keiper were on the sick list.

Arthur Trogner was named chairman of the new program committee which also includes Robert McCain and Charles Bell. At the meeting on Jan. 29, a picture "When Every Minute Counts" will be shown. On Feb. 5, Horace G. Walters will give a talk on "Rafting Down the Delaware River".

The "meeting point" was, appropriately enough, the Methodist Church in Hampton, and they went on to dinner from there.

Hadassah meets Tuesday

SCOTRUN — The Scotrun Lutheran Women Workers have set the date for their penny supper for March 29. It will be held at the Tannersville firehall.

Barbara A. Evans bride of R. K. Van Why

STROUDSBURG — Barbara A. Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Pomperien of 716 Sarah Street, Stroudsburg, former residents of Manhattan, Kansas, announce the engagement of their daughter, Carolyn Lois, to First Lt. William Arnold Lange, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Lange of Bangor and Rideau Lake, Ontario, Canada.

The bride elect is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar D. Kenyon of Gainesville, and Mrs. Edward R. Snyder of Winston-Salem, N.C., and the late Mr. Snyder.

Miss Kenyon was graduated from Gainesville High School and studied at Wilson College, Chambersburg. She is presently employed by the Georgia Mental Health Institute in Atlanta.

Lt. Lange is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. William J. Lange of Bangor and Mrs. Miller Osborne of Philadelphia and the late Mr. Osborne.

He was graduated from Bangor Area High School and Lafayette College where he was a member of the college choir, a ruling elder of the Lafayette College Church and was Cadet Battalion Commander in the R.O.T.C. Program.

The bridegroom-elect is currently serving as Assistant Operations Officer of the 2nd Missile Battalion, 562nd Artillery in Fairbanks, Alaska.

The wedding will be held on Feb. 12 at the home of the bride-elect's parents, in Gainesville, Georgia.

The cookie sale will be conducted from Feb. 1 to Feb. 21 in the six-county area which includes Monroe County, Brownies, Juniors, Cadettes and Seniors in more than 325 troops will sell cookies—lots of cookies since the council quota is 275,000 boxes.

The sales is the only money-raising event conducted annually by the girls themselves during which they learn how to sell, learn to keep their own records and manage all details of the sale in a business like manner.

It is one method of securing financial support for both troop and council needs. Proceeds from the sale are used to develop and maintain camps, both day and established, by the council New building and equipment as well as major repairs are paid for through income from the cookie sale.

Cookie sale income also supplements the funds allocated by the Community Chest or United Fund in the council area.

Each troop is free to make its own sales plan, to sell, direct or take orders. Each girl receives 5 cents per box credit for each box of cookies she sells which may be used by her toward payment of day or established camping fees, or for the troop program if she does not elect to use it this way.

Mrs. Kohler will be assisted by adult volunteers for each district and neighborhood to work with the council and troop cookie chairmen.

In district 5, which includes Monroe County, cookie chairmen appointed include: Mrs. John Zloch, East Stroudsburg district chairman; Mrs. Sue Ellen Lee, Mount Pocono Mountain neighborhood chairman; Mrs. Earl Holmes, Moscow, Pocono neighborhood, chairman; Mrs. Dale Parker, East Stroudsburg neighborhood; and Mrs. Robert Kaiser, Delaware Water Gap, Stroudsburg neighborhood.

Let's guide you to some suitable combs and brushes. Did you know there's a comb for hair with dandruff? A comb whose chief function is applying permanent wave solution? A comb for fine hair, for coarse hair, for rolling for untangling—a comb in fact for almost every purpose, every type of hair? True, it's not likely you'll ever see all these combs in use. Most are for professional stylists, and most stylists have a favorite few types which they use according to the type of hair. Basically, you need but two combs—a dressing comb and a raffia comb. Look for one that's easy for you to handle, is strong enough for the density and texture of your hair.

And the chief function of our professional stylist at DOROTHY'S BEAUTY SALON, 572 Main St., Stroudsburg, is to guide you to a suitable hair style. Come in today and let us give you a relaxing facial or an attractive manicure for your hands. Open six days a week 9-5. Call 421-2432.

Dises are much discussed anatomical structures, but we hear only about the bad features, such as the pain and discomfort of a slipped disc. Why not be grateful for the comfort that discs give? Discs are cushions placed one between each vertebrae and provide for considerable shock absorbing. When the shock of an accident is great enough to overcome the built-in shock absorbers, the jar is transmitted to the spine and is likely to cause a vertebral subluxation (a vertebrae misaligned sufficiently to cause nerve root pressure). Should the subluxation occur in the lower back, the following conditions occur: low back pain sciatica, bladder disturbances, leg cramps or pains and menstrual disturbances. If symptoms such as these persist, a Chiropractic examination and adjustments are recommended.

Stroudsburg teenager critical after head-on accident on 447

EAST STROUDSBURG — A 17-year-old Stroudsburg boy is in critical condition in the intensive care ward of General Hospital of Monroe County as the result of an auto accident Saturday night.

Also, a 19-year-old youth is in guarded condition in the same hospital and three other teenagers are in satisfactory condition.

All were injured in a two-car crash on Rt. 447 in Analomink.

Arthur F. Mimlitsch Jr., 17, driver of one of the cars, is in critical condition with serious head, face and chest injuries. Rosemary Dimmick, 18, Stroudsburg, a passenger in the Mimlitsch car, is in satisfactory condition.

Richard Metzgar, 19, of Stroudsburg, a passenger in the car driven by Joseph Leggieri, 18, of Stroudsburg, is in guarded condition.

Leggieri is in satisfactory condition as is another one of his passengers, Edwin Miller, 17, also of Stroudsburg.

Mimlitsch was pinned in the wreckage of his car. A rescue team had to pry away the wreckage so he could be removed.

According to Stroud Township Police, both cars were traveling north on Rt. 447 with the Mimlitsch car in the lead. As they rounded the curve, Mimlitsch lost control of his car. The car struck the embankment on the side of the highway, spun around, crossed the highway and crashed into the guard rails. It then spun around and came to a stop, facing south. It was then that the Leggieri car crashed head-on into the disabled vehicle.

It has been reported that Leggieri and his passengers had talked to Mimlitsch at a drive-in restaurant in Stroud Township.

The two cars are said to have left the drive-in and the Leggieri car, on several occasions, had bumped the rear of the car driven by Mimlitsch.

Police are investigating this report but will be unable to confirm it until they are able to talk with the drivers and the passengers.

Both cars were totally demolished.

Gap schoolhouse may close

By PETE GRADY

Pocono Record Reporter

DELAWARE WATER GAP — One of the oldest elementary schools in Monroe County may close this summer because of a high cost per pupil ratio and diminishing pupil attendance.

The two room, one to fourth grade Delaware Water Gap Elementary School which was built sometime in the 1820's, will probably close at the end of this school year, according to Stroudsburg Area School superintendent-elect Samuel O. Wells III.

Stroudsburg area School Board has taken no official action on the closing of the 25 pupil brick schoolhouse which still contains the original bell donated to the school by Anthony Dutot, a French settler.

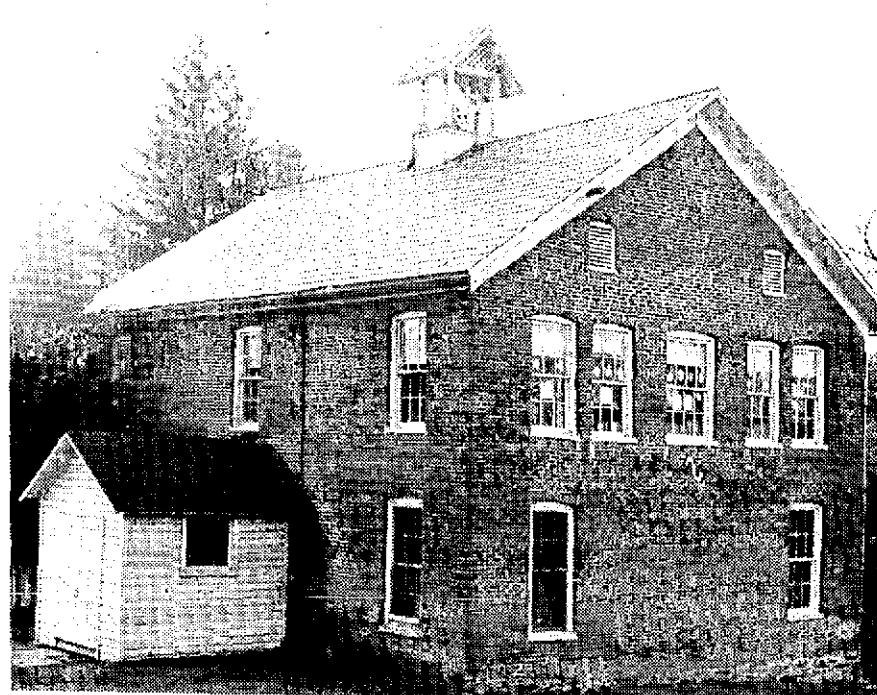

According to Gap resident, Joseph T. Hauser, Dutot obtained the bell from Santo Domingo. Dutot fired a cannon and had the bell rung on various American Holidays. The bell still rings today, Hauser said.

Stroudsburg school board member Rodney Baechthold, Delaware Water Gap, will explain the school board's position on the Gap Elementary School to members of the Delaware Water Gap PTA on Feb. 16.

Baechthold pointed out the advantages and disadvantages of the school. He said the advantages included a low pupil-teacher ratio, about 12 pupils for the school's two teachers, which permitted individualized instruction and even a form of private tutoring.

He listed disadvantages as the high cost of school maintenance, a lack of education facilities such as physical education, a playground and cafeteria.

One of the most glaring disadvantages, Baechthold said, was the abrupt psychological adjustment forced on the pupils when they have to leave the

A little bit of old Americana, the two-room brick elementary school house in Delaware Water Gap, built in the early 1800s, will probably close down this summer. Gap school's fourth grade for the fifth grade at Ramsey school.

"Some pupils made the adjustment to the fifth grade in a few days but others took several months," Baechthold said.

It was like going from their own little world in the Gap's two-room school to a school where the mainstream of 400 pupils swarmed over them with a host of new and varied social patterns, he added.

In the past some borough groups were opposed to the students leaving the school for a larger district school but the situation in pupil count is much lower today than a few years ago, he said.

Baechthold noted that there would be only one kindergarten child that would enter the Gap's elementary in the fall.

"The pupil population has fallen from about 40 to 45 a few years ago to its present load of 25 students," he said.

Stroudsburg's Analomink elementary school which has about double the pupil population of the Gap's elementary school, 44 pupils, will not be closed down, at least this year, according to superintendent-elect Wells.

Unlike the Gap elementary school Analomink has a cafeteria and playground space, Wells added.

Public impressed with new facilities in Tri-County MH/MR hospital center

By FRED WALTER

Pocono Record Reporter

EAST STROUDSBURG — "It is because of your interest and support that Monroe County is able to have such a facility. You can be proud," Dr. Elaine Schwinge, told visitors as they toured the Mental Health Center of Carbon-Monroe-Pike Counties, Sunday afternoon in the General Hospital of Monroe County.

More than 500 persons from the three counties which are served by the mental health center toured the present hospital facilities during the open house.

The fifth and sixth floors of the new wing were opened to the public eye for the first time since completion.

Remarks from visitors were most complimentary about the sixth floor which houses the mental health unit.

"What a lovely home atmosphere," was a comment.

"Why, I wouldn't mind having a member of my own family come here," was another, as the impressed visitor walked along the wall-to-wall carpeted corridors and individually decorated patient rooms, furnished with modern, homestyle beds and added furnishings, giving it the feel of a personal suite.

Upon entrance, the view is bright, lively and colorful. Paintings compliment the usually bare walls in corridors and rooms.

Even a caged parakeet welcomes guests in the open lounge and dining area. An electric organ when played, adds to the relaxed attitude of the entire sixth floor.

"It's very pleasant" a visitor described as he was even more surprised about the entire attitude of the mental health program.

"Every effort is made to help the patient resume his responsibilities at his job and home. He doesn't lay in bed all day. We assign responsibilities, give them chores to do." Mrs. Beatrice Kerner, program coordinator for hospital services, told the visitors.

A laundry and utility room is provided, besides a self-contained kitchen service area, used in occupational therapy. The activity center induces more group consultation and participation.

As an example of occupational therapy, a wall-sized mural, a product of the patients, was displayed for the visitors, as well as other subjects of creative, practical arts and crafts.

"This really means a lot to us," Monroe County Sheriff Forrest Sebring said.

The open house was sponsored by the hospital auxiliary and administration. Co-chairmen were Mrs. Maxwell H. Cohen, Mrs. Seldon Ponter and Mrs. Walter McClelland.

Mrs. Edmund Strickland was chairman of the hostess committee with hospital board members Mrs. Nelson T. Beers, Mrs. Fred W. Davis, assisted by Mrs. William Hopkins, Mrs. Charles Swisher Jr., Mrs. Paul Lloyd and Mrs. Edward Drieha, auxiliary board members.

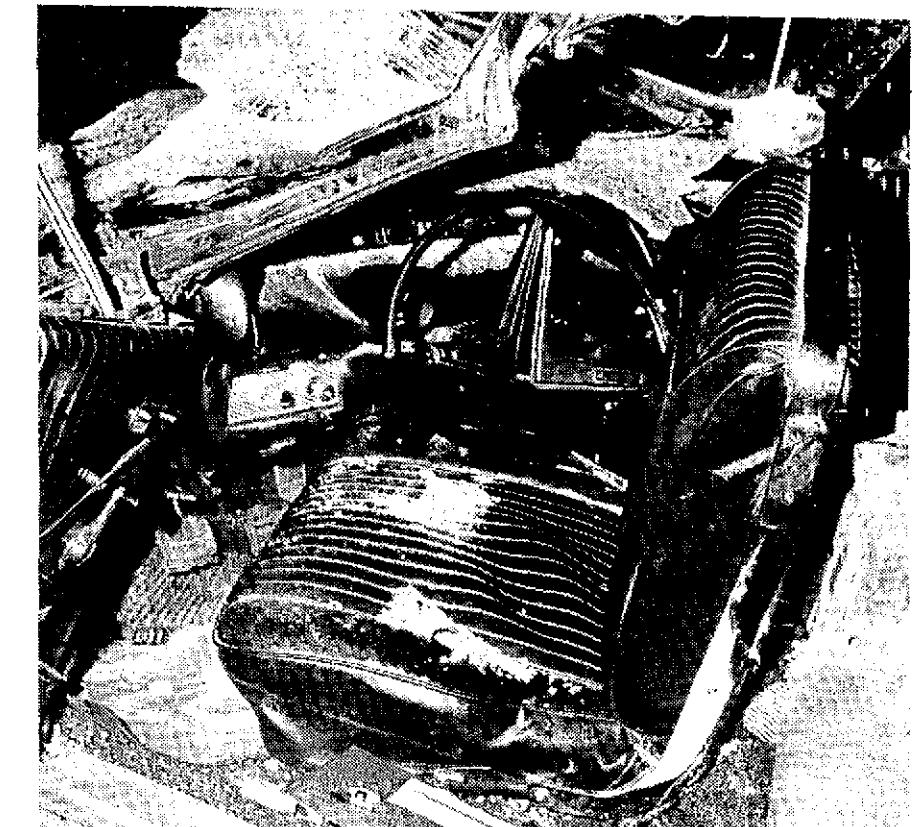

Tour guides were Mrs. Earl Berry, Mrs. Elmer D. Christine, Mrs. Jesse R. S. Flory, Mrs. James G. Fahl, Mrs. William Gorman, Mrs. George Richards, Mrs. George Hoke, Mrs. Francis P. Donatelli and Mrs. Lloyd Snyder.

Crash victim satisfactory

STROUDSBURG — Paul Arnold of Stroudsburg R.D. 2, Saturday was admitted to the General Hospital of Monroe County following a one-car accident on Business Rt. 209 in Stroud Township.

Stroud Township Police said Arnold was traveling west and he failed to make the curve in front of Beaufort Mills, lost control of the car and crashed head-on into a utility pole.

A spokesman for the hospital Sunday night said Arnold's condition was satisfactory.

Arthur F. Mimlitsch Jr., 17, of Stroudsburg R.D. 2, Saturday night had to be freed from the wreckage of this car after it was hit head-on by a car driven by Joseph Leggieri, 18, of Stroudsburg. The crash occurred on Rt. 447 in Analomink. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Freedom must be earned, intern tells mixed audience

EAST STROUDSBURG —

During 1968, 50 forest fires burned 282 acres of forest land in the Delaware Forest District of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters according to the annual report released by the district office in Stroudsburg.

"Forest fire protection is one of the programs of the District which covers Monroe, Northampton and Pike counties. Services include State forest management and assistance to private landowners," John H. Bizer, district forester, said.

According to the report submitted by Bizer the largest fire was on Blue Mountain near Pen Argyl which burned 42 acres. The most disastrous fire was in Eldred Township, Monroe County, where two Department employees were seriously injured.

An intensive forest fire prevention program was conducted throughout the District which administers more than 70,000 acres of State Forest Land with the emphasis on multiple use.

State forests are open for hunting and fishing as well as many other kinds of recreation including snowmobiling. The District provides many services to private woodland owners. Two professional foresters are engaged in this program full time.

The District harvested 233,000 board feet of sawtimber from the State forests which returned nearly $5,700 to the State General Fund. An additional $20,000 a year is returned to the General Fund from the rental of nearly 1,000 leased cabin sites on State forests where residents have built a cabin for recreation purposes.

Insect and disease aerial flights were made over the District during June and August. Defoliation by the oak leaf roller insect affected 87,360 acres of mixed oak with light to moderate defoliation.

The saddled prominent insect defoliated 31,682 acres of beech and maple with light to moderate defoliation.

Assistance was given to 91 landowners on some phase of forestry covering 3,208 acres; 36 landowners planted 79,000 forest tree seedlings on their lands; 2,000 forest tree seedlings were planted on State forest lands; 17 landowners made thinnings in young stands of timber on 325 acres of their forest lands; 402,000 board feet of merchantable timber was selectively marked for harvest on the forest lands of three landowners; one landowner constructed 1.6 miles of fire access lanes through his forest land.

The 23.4 per cent rise was relatively high. It compares favorably with the gains made at the retail level generally in the United States, an average of 20.3 per cent. In the State of Pennsylvania, the increase was 21.3 per cent.

The bulk of this consumer demand for apparel, food, cars, drugs, furniture and other merchandise was supplied through some 320 retail outlets in the local area. The number of people employed in these stores, 2,255, and the size of their payrolls have kept pace with the expansion in business.

Their payrolls, in the four-year period, climbed from $5,701,000 a year to $7,344,000, according to the U.S. Department of Commerce.

The gains chalked up by retail stores in Monroe County and elsewhere are attributed to several factors, all related to consumer optimism, confidence and a feeling of basic security.

Fundamental to all was the marked increase in real earnings — even after Federal taxes, price rises and the larger deduction for social security. Family income, locally, has been on an upward curve, despite periodic dips, during the four years.

The confidence was based upon steady jobs, the continuing boom in business and built-in boom in business, covering illness, disability and retirement, through social security and other pension funds.

And, according to a forecast by economists connected with the National Industrial spoke to an ecumenical generation of man must earn his most coveted possession — freedom — a young intern

Lutherans, Catholics, Presbyterians and Church of Christ members, said the basic freedoms and its shining multi-facets of hope, challenge, faith, responsibility, courage, sacrifice, law and order cannot be passed on from generation to another.

The intern, William Hall, who be earned anew by each generation and by each individual.

"Freedom is not a license, but a privilege to those who accept responsibility," said the tall dark-haired student intern from Lutheran Seminary in Columbia, S.C.

"For a person to be truly free, he must accept the responsibilities given him by his family, by his peers, by his country, and last... one's self," he said.

Specifically addressing the younger generation, Hall quoted Gen. William Westmoreland and said, "Freedom to choose beyond the law is intolerable, but freedom to choose within the law is inalienable."

Hall, who gave the final sermon in the third series of the Prayer Week observance, said there is another kind of freedom, a second freedom which is never earned. It is the free gift of God.

"It is a gift from God and it can never be lost. God bestowed this gift on mankind from the very beginning and we have cherished it ever since," he said. Hall added that political freedoms have to be earned and re-earned, "but our spiritual freedom is a freedom that we are born with."

The series of three ecumenical Prayer Week meetings, which concluded Sunday night, all evolved around the theme of "Called to Freedom."

Stove fire brings trucks

STROUDSBURG — Stroudsburg firemen were called Sunday at 10:40 p.m. to Stroudsburg Engine Works after a neighbor saw some sparks coming from a chimney.

William Schreider, fire chief, said the night watchman was building a fire in a stove in an annex of the building and who ever it was that called in the alarm must have seen sparks coming from the chimney.

No service was required and firemen returned to the firehouse.

Bar stabbing investigated

TANNERSVILLE — State Police from Stroudsburg are continuing the investigation of a stabbing that occurred Friday night in the Hofbrau in Tannersville.

Clinton Simpson was stabbed in the hand and a customer, Stephen Smith, received a cut over his eye.

The only other information police had was that Smith was taken to the General Hospital of Monroe County and that he refused treatment for the cut above his eye.

ESSC pins Shippensburg, 44-2

By TED WISMER
Record Sports Editor

EAST STROUDSBURG — It was supposed to be a breather and that's exactly the way it turned out as the East Stroudsburg State wrestling team outclassed Shippensburg, 44-2 before 1,500 in Koehler Fieldhouse, Saturday night.

In gaining their sixth win in eight outings the Warriors won 10 of the 11 bouts, one on a forfeit at 191 and five on falls. The setback was the fifth in 18 matches for the Raiders.

Although the team score wasn't close, three of the individual matches could have gone either way. In two of them Warrior grapplers won on near-falls awarded at the final buzzer and in the third riding time determined the winner.

Stroudsburg's Frankie Coco

was one of those that won at the buzzer. Coco fell behind 4-0 to Glen Miller in the first period when the latter gained a takedown and predicament.

Miller still led 5-2 entering the final period and made it 6-2 with an escape. But Coco then got a takedown and then turned Miller over on his back for a winning near-fall. Miller entered the match with a 7-0 record.

At 123-pound Ted Pease led Thayne Nader 9-2 when he scored a fall with 6:36 gone. Pease, now 7-1, broke a 22 tie with a reversal and near-fall (terrible) in the second period and added another reversal in the third.

Shippensburg picked up its only points in the 130-pound bout when Ernie Walter (3-1-1) reversed Kimble Matter in the final 20 seconds to earn a 6-6 tie. Matter led three times but each time Walter gained a reversal to tie the score.

Tom Best had trouble getting going in the first two periods at 137 and found himself trailing Colvin Redden, 5-1. Redden took Best down twice and gained an escape.

Best closed the gap to 5-3 with a reversal and then with 1:40 left turned Redden on his back. Best kept Redden down for his efforts he was awarded a near-fall by referee Buddy Lawrence that gave him a 6-5 lead. Two time points gave Best an 8-5 win.

Co-captain Dan Rossi (5-2) finally got in the pin column as he caught Ken Warner (6-3-1) in a cradle and was awarded a pin with 4:54 gone. Rossi led 7-2 at the time of his fall. The 152-pound bout paired two area boys, ESSC's Tom Huber from Hellertown and the Raiders' Rick Lenz from Allentown. Huber had little trouble gaining a 7-0 decision as he had takedowns in the first and second period (at the buzzer) and rode Lenz all of the third.

Bob DeVore (6-2) was penalized one point for stalling enabling John Heller (6-1-2) to tie him at 4-4 at the final buzzer. But DeVore was awarded one time point and gained a 5-4 win.

The most one-sided bout of the night was at 167 where Fred Epler, the most improved Warrior, had Jim McNeil on his back four different times before scoring a fall at 5:32.

The fastest pin of the night went to sophomore Tom Louder, making only his second varsity start for ESSC. Louder pinned Fred Wenling in 1:25 after scoring five points on a takedown and near-fall.

After Tom Kizis won the 191 pound bout on a forfeit, Rich Schumacher (6-2) ended the match by pinning John Waggoner (7-5-1) in 4:56. Schumacher took Waggoner down twice before getting the fall.

After three rounds

Douglass' 210 tops in Crosby

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Dale Douglass went out with the birds Sunday and while he didn't bag many along the way, he still managed a two-under-par 70 at Pebble Beach to take the third round lead in the $150,000 Bing Crosby National Pro Am Golf Tournament with a 54-hole score of six-under-par 210.

Douglass was among the first of the 168 pros in the field to go off and he took advantage of the relative stillness and sunshine, the first seen on the Monterey Peninsula in nearly two weeks, for his sub par round. He managed to run into a brief hail and rain shower on the back nine but parred in to stand all alone at the head of the list.

Douglass, who enjoyed his best year on the tour in 1968 when he won $57,444, had only two birds on his card—on the par four first hole and the par five sixth. However, he never missed a step the rest of the way, going out in 34 and coming home in 36.

His 210 total, with one round to go in chase of the top prize of $25,000, gave him a stroke edge on Howie Johnson, who shot a one-under-par 71 at Pebble and Douglass had a 75 at Cypress.

Lee Trevino, the U.S. Open champ, improved from a second-round 77 with a two under 70 at Spyglass to tie at 219.

Douglas, Johnson and Archer started the day tied for the lead at 210.

Weather-wise, it easily was the best day of the tournament although it did not pass without rain. Douglass got caught on the 15th hole and most of the late starters, such as Archer, played in at least a half dozen brief showers.

Johnson made the turn at Cypress Point five under on the strength of as many birds. He bogied the 11th, parred the next three and then ran into the hail and rain shower while on the exposed side of the sensible course. As a result, Johnson, who won $28,269 on the tour last year, bogied three consecutive holes from the 5th through the 17th and lost any chance he had for the lead.

Archer's round worked the other way. He played the back nine first at Spyglass Hill and made the turn in 39. Then, he birdied three holes coming home for a 33 that still left him in good position at 212.

John Lotz had the day's best round—a five-under-par 67 at Cypress Point—to move up among the leaders with a 213 total. His card included seven birds and two bogeys.

Jack Nicklaus had a 73 at Spyglass and was in a tie at 217, while Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper each had 74s that left them in a big group tied at four over par 220.

Defending Crosby champion Johnny Pott and Masters champ Bob Goalby were in a group tied at 217. Pott shot a 75 at Pebble and Goalby had a 75 at Cypress.

Failed to lure Western coach

DePasqua named Pitt coach

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The University of Pittsburgh tapped Carl DePasqua, a former Pitt and Pittsburgh Steelers' assistant, as its head football coach Sunday after failing for the third time to lure a prominent coach from the West.

The surprise selection of DePasqua, on the Pitt staff from 1958 through 1965, was announced less than 24 hours after Lloyd Eaton of Wyoming turned down the job.

DePasqua, 41, played quarterback, halfback and fullback at Pitt from 1946 through 1949. Last year he coached the Steelers' defensive line after two seasons as head coach at Waynesburg, Pa., College, where he captured the NAIA title in 1966.

Frank Kush of Arizona State and Dee Andros of Oregon State rejected Pitt offers before Eaton, although Kush actually accepted the job and changed his mind four days later.

The new coach said it had been his "greatest desire" to return to Pitt and described himself as "elated."

He said being selected as at least a fourth choice "doesn't bother me in the least." DePasqua explained that many times a coach may not know if he is a first or second choice anyway, but in Pitt's case every move in the hunt for a coach quickly became known.

Neither the length of DePasqua's contract nor his salary were announced but it is believed he received a four or five year contract at about $25,000 a year. Some of the details were still to be worked out.

In DePasqua, Pitt selected a coach well familiar with the area and the university. He is out because, as DePasqua said, "this thing happened pretty quickly."

DePasqua's first move was to appoint Bimbo Ceconi, who played and coached at Pitt with DePasqua, as his offensive coach. No other assistant coaches were announced.

Ironically, DePasqua succeeds Dave Hart, who replaced John Michelosen—the head coach under whom DePasqua served as an assistant. Hart resigned under pressure Nov. 25 with one year remaining on a four-year contract. Each of his three teams at Pitt had 1-9 records.

Athletic Director Casimir Myslinski, who promised Pitt would go after a "name" coach, gave up his search Saturday night when Eaton turned down a reported $29,000-a-year, long-term contract. Both Kush and Andros had been offered big raises and five-year pacts to come to Pittsburgh.

In DePasqua, Pitt selected a coach well familiar with the area and the university. He is regarded as an astute observer of the game and a sound coach.

At Waynesburg, in his only previous college head-coaching job, DePasqua's teams lost just once in two seasons. That setback was by 7-0 to Fairmont, W. Va., late in the 1967 season, and Fairmont went on to win the NAIA crown. Waynesburg had won a year earlier.

DePasqua's brief tenure with the Steelers ended when head coach Bill Austin was fired one day after the National Football League season ended last month. The Steelers have not named a successor.

The new coach is Pitt's 28th head coach and the seventh former Panther player to return to his alma mater as coach.

After graduation in 1955, DePasqua was in the Army for two years then returned to Pitt to earn a master's degree and coach part-time.

He coached in Canada in 1955, went into business for two years, then joined Michelosen's staff in 1958.

Six indoor records fall in Astrodome relay meet

HOUSTON (UPI) — Ken Swenson and his Kansas State teammates who came to the Astrodome for experience and confidence last weekend got all that plus a couple of performances they had not expected.

Swenson, a blond junior, anchored the two mile relay team which bettered the existing indoor world record Saturday night in the Astrodome Federation National Relay Championships. He also anchored the sprint medley relay team which topped the world record Friday night.

All indoor world records are actually unofficial since no world organization recognizes world marks. Swenson, overlooked in the pre-meet fauna because of the many Olympians entered, ran a 1:47.3 anchor leg in the sprint medley as the Wildcats knocked five seconds off the old record with a 3:17.9.

His teammates in the two mile—sophomore Dave Peterson and freshmen Jerome Howe and Bob Barratti—had never run in varsity competition.

"We just tried to keep up with the big schools and win," Barratti said. "We are just getting used to competition. We needed confidence mostly and this should do it. It gives us a lot of background for what's ahead of us."

K-State's distance relay medley team of Peterson, Barratti, Howe and quartemiler Don Mills also won their event and teammate Ray McGill won the pre-meet fauna because of the high jump with a leap of 6-10 to give the Wildcats more victories, four, than any other of the 52 teams in the meet.

Cross state rival Kansas, NCAA champion California and Texas Southern were second with three each. In fact, Big 8 teams dominated the meet with 10 victories, two going to Oklahoma and one to Oklahoma State.

Six indoor records were bettered, three each night. The other two Saturday night were by Hardee McAlhaney of Tennessee in the 600 and by the Texas mile relay team of Stan McDaniel, David Matina, Eddie Canada and Dave Morton.

McAlhaney ran a 1:03.1 compared with the record of 1:03 set by Martin McCrady of Central Ohio State in Louisville in 1966. Texas, anchored by Morton's 45.8, ran a 3:08.4, lowering the mark of 3:08.6 which Rice set in Friday's preliminaries. Rice was second in 3:08.6 in the finals.

In addition to K-State's sprint medley record, the other marks Friday night were by Olympian Willie Davenport of Southern University with a fantasia 13.5 in the 120-yard high hurdles and Lennox Miller of USC with a 9.4 in the 100-yard dash.

The inaugural meet in the Dome attracted a respectable 30,375 fans despite the fact it had to compete for top athletes with three other indoor meets last weekend. Meet officials were satisfied but planned to move the meet to a February weekend when no other indoor events were scheduled so they could bring in most all of the world's best track athletes.

Celtics cut lead of Bullets

BOSTON (UPI) — Veteran guard Sam Jones scored 28 points to lead the Celtics to a 124-86 rout of the Bullets Sunday afternoon. Boston's first win over Baltimore this season.

The win left Boston in third place in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association, three games behind front-running Baltimore.

The Bullets were handicapped by the first-quarter injury to their leading scorer, guard Earl Monroe. He again hurt the ankle he injured in Saturday night's loss to Atlanta and played only five minutes, scoring two points.

The Celtics held a slim 52-47 lead at halftime but in the third quarter star Don Nelson scored 15 points, hitting seven of eight from the field, to lead Boston to a 37-point period.

The fourth quarter was a show of substitutes as the Celtics were able to use guards Don Chaney, newly out of Army service, and Mal Graham, just recovered from a two months illness.

Nelson had 26 points while Kevin Loughery had 19 to pace the losers.

Grandma's distress signs

I can't remember anyone who enjoyed poor health like my grandmother. God love her. She was the only person I knew who could be "turned on" just by watching them change the trusses in the drugstore window.

To most people, "Hello and how are you?" is a greeting. To Grandma it meant, "I've got a live one who wants to hear about my bladder."

She was always a brave little soldier. That is, she never went to bed but there were always visible telltale signs to indicate that she wasn't going to start any long novels. A man's white handkerchief tied around her head (which made her look like Cochise getting his tongue forked) signified a bad headache. A limp meant her hip had slipped out again, while a heavy flannel rag, saturated with something decayed, meant she "had it in the throat."

The only time I ever saw her depressed about her bad health was when someone mentioned how good she looked. Then she bristled and said, "That's all you know. I'm going to a doctor tomorrow. I know what he's going to say. He's going to put me in the hospital alone she had abdominal pains, agnail, anemia, angina, anthrax, apoplexy, appendicitis, arteriosclerosis, athlete's foot, and azotemia (disease of horses, characterized by sweating).

She was moving right along with the book when she called one day and I asked "How are you, Grandma?"

"Not too well," she said. "I'm having trouble with my prostate glands." (She had gotten to the P's already.)

"Well, there's a lot of it going around," I said. "You take care now."

She sighed, "We all have our crosses to bear." (Somehow a cross and a prostate gland were almost too much.)

Today, I never watch television but that I don't think how Grandma would have loved it. All those glass stomachs, acids, eating right through metal, nasal-graph tests and those little Bufferin and aspirin racing each other to the blood stream. How she would have enjoyed it. I remember her in the hospital prior to her passing. I said softly, "Grandma, you don't look too good." She smiled and said, "Thank you."

Just as some people want to see the Pope or Niagara Falls before they die, Grandma wanted to go to Mayo Clinic where the names were all in Latin and they had some respect for people who were sick.

As it was, she had to settle for a larger leather-bound medical dictionary. You've heard of dial-a-saint or dial-a-menu. With Grandma, it was dial-a-disease. In one week

Ann, I am not a tramp and I never was. I know now I made a big mistake. But I don't want to tell my fiance. Do you feel I am being dishonest? Eugene and I started to be intimate a few months ago. He never asked me if there had been others and I never told him. Please tell me what to do.

ELEVATOR LOVE: (Q.) Is it all right to make out in an elevator during working hours? This was the idea of a guy I work with. At first I didn't go along with him, but finally I agreed to cooperate. After we finished he said he was very happy.

He's 19 and I'm 17. He's never called me on the phone or asked me for a date, so I'm planning to ask him to a banquet. Do you think this would be wrong? Do you think what we did in the elevator was wrong?

A Reader in San Antonio, Texas (A.) You've let him nibble at the goodies free and now you want to spread him a whole banquet on the same basis.

Both are wrong. First, because a boy is likely to have little respect for a girl who is too eager and easy to get. Second, it's the boy's job to do the pursuing, and when he is able to take a short cut.

as he did, or the girl does his work for him, as you want to do now, he puts a very low value on her. Third, you were goofing off during working hours. Fourth, society says no to what you were doing; if someone had found you two all entwined inside that elevator you would have been fired.

Start over again, the right way, with some other boy.

Townships pass fuels tax scrutiny

Record Harrisburg Bureau HARRISBURG — Three Monroe County townships whose liquid fuels tax accounts have been audited by the State Auditor General's Department have gained departmental approval.

State Auditor General Grace M. Sloan said the three townships under audit were Barrett, Hamilton and Polk.

The Barrett Township audit shows that during the 1967 calendar year, $13,756 was received from the State Motor License Fund, which coupled with $6,000 from other sources (General Fund repayment of loans) gave the township a total of $19,756 in its fund inasmuch as there was no balance as of January 1, 1967.

Expenditures during the year amounted to $19,754, including $7,052 in wages, $5,523 in materials, $1,179 in equipment rentals and $6,000 in loans to General Fund, leaving a December 31, 1967, balance of two dollars in the fund.

In the case of Hamilton Township, the audit report showed the township starting the year 1967 with a balance of $6,590, with receipts from the State Motor License Fund during 1967 amounting to $20,469, for a fund total of $27,060. Of this amount, however, $20,598 was spent during the year — $15,188 in wages, $2,473 in materials, $1,132 in equipment rentals and $1,802 in supplies, leaving a balance at the beginning of 1968 of $6,461.

Polk Township spent $18,117 in State Motor License Fund monies from its account, according to the audit, breaking down into $8,805 in wages, $7,749 in materials and $1,572 in equipment rentals.

The fund started the year 1967 with a balance of $7,397, received $16,313 from the state fund during the year, thus ending the year with a balance of $5,593, according to the audit.

Two peach baskets, nailed to the balcony of a gymnasium in Springfield, Mass., gave basketball its name.

Counties informed of new tax goals

STROUDSBURG — The proposed federal budget of $195 billion as proposed by the Johnson administration for fiscal year 1969-70, has been prorated among the 67 counties by the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce.

If congress accepts this budget, it will mean a burden of $52,250,000 in direct and hidden federal taxes for residents of Monroe County, according to the state chamber of commerce.

To residents of Pike County, it will mean $14,250,000, for that county's share of the proposed budget.

In Northampton County, the share would be $218,490,000; Wayne County, $27,310,000, and Carbon County, $42,750,000.

The chamber estimated the proposed budget would cost Pennsylvania $11,874,240,000. The state-wide cost was computed on the basis of a statistically-weighted formula which shows that Pennsylvanians pay 6.08 per cent of the cost of running the federal government.

The breakdown into county shares is based on each county's population, retail sales, market value of taxable real estate and effective buying income.

Monroe County's prospective federal tax share is $25,391,100 higher than the total wages and salaries paid to manufacturing employees in this county in 1968.

Ambulance training course set

EAST STROUDSBURG — The first "Ambulance Attendant Training Course" to be held in Monroe County will begin Tuesday, February 4.

Registration is scheduled from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the Monroe County General Hospital, East Stroudsburg.

Classes will meet each Tuesday night for a ten-week period. The course is being co-sponsored by the Monroe County Medical Society and the Pennsylvania Department of Health. Dr. Frank J. Dracos is Medical Co-ordinator and will be assisted by a number of Medical Society members who will act as the physician-instructors for the course.

Topics to be covered will include fractures and dislocations; poisoning cases; head, chest and internal injuries; communicable diseases; obstetrics; external bleeding; shock; resuscitation; heart attacks and strokes; psychiatric patients; burns and frostbite; coroner's cases; inhalation, and emergency vehicle operation by a member of the State Police.

Each person who satisfactorily completes the training is issued a certificate and wallet card validated for a four-year period. No pre-registration is being held before February 4th class.

Support urged for dam sites

STROUDSBURG — The slow progress of the Upper Brodhead Creek Flood Control Project is apparently due to lack of support from the public and interested parties.

More local support was urged by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service who is responsible for constructing the three dam sites.

James Johnson, district conservationist and head of the Monroe-Carbon county SCS unit in Stroudsburg, told members of the Monroe County Soil and Water Conservation District Wednesday.

"The project needs all the support it can get and we should remind people of its importance. Even though we had a referendum in favor of the project, there are still some uncertainties. Some extra support might move it along."

Johnson did not say what these "uncertainties" were but said "I get the feeling sometimes that nobody is behind us on this."

Johnson reported Thursday that his men have just completed the preliminary survey for dam site 463, located at Skyview Estates. All preliminary surveys are now complete for the three dam sites including site 464 at Deer Run Lodge and site 465 at Buck Hill Falls.

"The preliminary survey is required to determine the amount of land area needed for each dam site," Johnson explained. This also provides for a preliminary design in construction.

"The next step is a geological investigation," Johnson said. This determines whether there is enough fill material available and suitable to build the earth and rock dams.

"The geological investigations will tell whether a dam structure can be built in the area. We are reasonably sure at this point that a dam can be built at the Buck Hill site," Johnson said.

This type of investigation is a necessary requirement and has to be completed before actual land easements are acquired by the county commissioners.

But before this type of a detailed study can be made, a special option and permission is required from the landowners, according to Johnson.

Johnson announced that a geological survey has been tentatively scheduled for the Buck Hill Falls site for Feb. 24 at 1 p.m. which will probably take several days to be completed.

To date, the project includes plans for three earth and rock dams, requiring land easements of 237 acres from seven landowners including Buck Hill Falls who will grant easements at $100 per acre on about 70 acres.

Two dam sites had been proposed at Buck Hill, but the Griscom Creek site was deleted.

Monroe County residents in November, 1967, approved $250,000 by referendum vote as the authorized figure to spend for land easements.

Ambulance corps opens training

CRESCE — The training program of the Barrett Township Ambulance Corps was recently started and will continue at each meeting of the Corps on the first and third Monday of each month at 7 p.m.

Charles Ayers and Al Shollenberger are directing the training.

A musical benefit program is being planned at Buck Hill Inn auditorium in March by the Corps.

Elmer Daniels discussed insurance coverage during the recent meeting.

Members were reminded of the election meeting of the Northeastern Pennsylvania Ambulance Assn. at the Scranton Red Cross Building on Feb. 6 at 8 p.m. The Barrett Corps is a member unit.

Two couples seek licenses

STROUDSBURG — Robert J. Corby, 22, East Stroudsburg R.D. 3, and Cynthia M. Urbanowicz, 21, 503 Thomas St., Stroudsburg, were one of two couples who applied for a marriage license Friday in the Monroe County Courthouse.

Also applying for a license were Joseph B. Petroski, 22, Buck Hill Falls, and Patricia R. Arnold, 22, also of Buck Hill Falls.

Varieties of strawberries

By GEORGE ABRAHAM
Record Garden Correspondent

HOME GROWN STRAWBERRIES: Many gardeners are considering strawberries this spring and the question they ask is: "What's the best variety to plant?"

Actually, there's no one best variety. Your best bet is to look over the catalogs and pick out two or three good varieties and order them. You might want to try Surecrop, Catskill, Sparkle, Armore, Empire, Fairfax, Robinson, and Geneva.

Many firms offer a collection, consisting of four or five varieties. This is good because the varieties are different and some are more apt to respond to conditions right in your own backyard.

After you get your plants, clip the roots if they cannot be planted without doubling. If the weather's bad when they arrive, then "heel" them in the ground until you can get them planted.

If you're interested in setting out some plants, get yourself a good catalog and study the descriptions of both old and new varieties. Don't go overboard on the latest varieties because quite often they lack many of the qualities found in the old favorites.

FREE: If you'd like to grow enough fruit for your family and freezer, send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for a copy of my bulletin "How to Grow Fat Strawberries." My guide has helped thousands of gardeners grow strawberries for fun and profit.

CARE FOR CYCLAMEN PLANT: This handsome item likes a cool, bright window out of direct sunlight. As soon as the blooms fade, reach in and pull out the stem with a quick yank.

Plant likes to be uniformly moist at all times, but do not overwater. If it happens to dry out, set the pot in a pan of water and within a few minutes it will perk right up. Best temperature is around 72 degrees, during day, 65 or lower at night.

The cooler the night temperature, the longer it will last. Do not go below 50 degrees.

Yellowing of leaves is due to high room temperature, dry soil, or age of plant. After plant finishes blooming, gradually withhold watering, until soil is dry, and then put in basement until spring. When fall comes, repot, water and it will start up again for another show.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: A reader writes: "Last year my zinnias were a complete flop. They grew next to a lilac bush and strangely, both plants were covered with the same disease. Does it matter if zinnias are grown next to a lilac bush?"

Answer: Both the zinnias and lilac are susceptible to powdery mildew, but I'm sure your zinnias would have contracted the disease even if the lilac weren't there.

Grow resistant varieties of zinnias. We'll have an article on them shortly. Also, keep the new growth covered with karathane, a mildew killer.

Don't worry about mildew injuring the lilac. Nearly all lilac bushes get it and they don't seem to suffer any damage.

Ambassador, who called Nixon has-been, coming to Washington

LONDON (AP) — Hard-headed professionalism under a suave, debonair manner made John Freeman a successful soldier, politician, journalist and diplomat. The combination is taking him to Britain's top diplomatic post as ambassador to Washington.

Freeman, who once called Richard M. Nixon a has-been, is looking forward "to doing business" with the new American administration. He believes the President is willing to let bygones be bygones.

He is to take over from Sir Patrick Dean in Washington only a few days before his 54th birthday, Feb. 19.

His job is important for Britain's future, both political and economic. He has no illusions that a so-called "special relationship" between America and Britain will make his task easier. The only special ties between the two countries, he has said, are those of the spirit that come from a shared language and common traditions.

Freeman, son of a London barrister, was educated at Westminster, one of Britain's best private schools, and Brasenose College, Oxford, where he took his degree in the classics.

In 1937, fresh from university, he tried his hand at advertising, then a comparatively infant industry here.

With the outbreak of World War II he enlisted in the Coldstream Guards. He rose through the ranks to win a lieutenant's pins and ended the war a major. He fought through the campaign in the Western Desert, the Italian campaign and was in at the surrender of Hamburg.

Money, of course! Sometimes the money a boy earns as a Junior Independent Merchant makes quite a difference in the kind of clothing, toys, trips, and education he gets.

But, just as often his parents are doctors, lawyers, school administrators, and successful business executives. Money is not as important to them. And while every boy gets satisfaction from being able to buy things for himself and others without going to his parents, money is not the primary reason these parents encourage their sons to become newspaperboys.

Much More than Money! The development of poise, while many of his classmates are still "all thumbs"; the ability to get along with all kinds of people; the capacity for taking responsibility; and the knowledge that he is a salesman. These will pay far greater dividends in the years to come.

And this is why successful men, many of whom were newspaperboys a generation ago, so strongly recommend to their sons that they get the greatly improved "basic training" provided for today's newspaperboys.

If you think your son might profit by newspaperboy route experience, our Circulation Department would like to discuss the matter with you.
